Synopsis

This record documents Joseph Hinshelwood's second period of military service, following his earlier service in the Royal Scots recorded separately in WO 97. He enlisted for short service with the Scottish Horse at Edinburgh in February 1901 and was assigned service number 23421. The attestation states that he had served previously and that he was married, both of which support continuity with the earlier Royal Scots record.

On enlistment he was recorded as about 33 years old, 5 ft 10 in tall and 142 lb, with a chest measurement of about 37 to 39 inches, blue eyes and brown hair. His trade is written as carter on the attestation. The birthplace/locality wording on this form is difficult to read consistently; the earlier WO 97 record identifies him as born at South Hetton, County Durham.

His statement of service records that service towards the limited engagement reckoned from 5 February 1901. The military history sheet records home service from 5 to 21 February 1901, followed by South African service from 22 February 1901 to 27 August 1902, and a final period at home from 28 August to 3 September 1902. The campaign field is stamped South Africa 1899-1901, and the discharge papers record a South Africa medal.

The family section identifies his wife Grace Hinshelwood as next of kin at 3 Tennant Street, Leith and records two children, Grace and Joseph. The marriage entry is partially difficult to read and has therefore not been normalised beyond what is clearly visible.

Joseph was discharged at Aldershot on 3 September 1902 on the termination of his engagement, after 1 year 211 days of service towards the engagement. His character was assessed as Good. The discharge description gives an intended residence of 3 Tennant Street, Leith and records his trade as labourer.

Research notes

- This is a separate source and second service period from Joseph Hinshelwood's earlier Royal Scots record (WO 97, TNG S1055).
- The prior-service answer and family details support identity continuity with the earlier record.
- The exact handwriting in the birthplace/locality and marriage entries is not fully secure; uncertain readings have not been forced.
- All six supplied images are retained in full.
